

High-Definition Wireless Ultrasound for Plastic Surgery

Improve Patient Safety

Clarius wireless ultrasound is the leading choice for plastic surgeons to clearly visualize facial and superficial anatomy. Differentiate your plastic surgery practice with high-definition ultrasound for instant diagnoses and safer procedures.

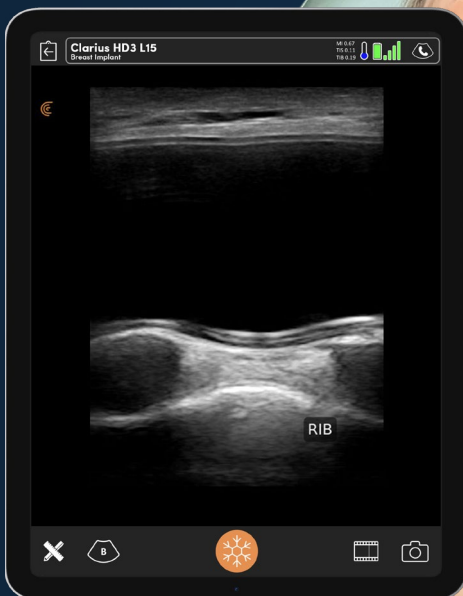

Image Clarity You Can Trust for Plastic Surgery

The use of ultrasound in plastic surgery is proven to improve procedural outcomes, minimize complications, and enable comprehensive follow-up, enhancing confidence and the overall patient experience. It's routinely used for examining breast implant integrity, evaluating and treating seromas, TAP and PEC blocks, and for safe BBL fat grafting.

- Scan and image breast implants to detect silent ruptures
- Diagnose and treat abdominal pseudobursae using ultrasound
- Visualize your needle for safe seroma aspirations
- Perform ultrasound-guided BBL procedures to improve safety
- Identify pectoralis muscles for effective PEC blocks
- Guide needle for successful TAP block for pain control
- Locate the largest perforators for reconstructive surgery

I would recommend Clarius for three main reasons. First, it's the easy way of connecting your scanner to any device. Second is the quality of the image, because it's brilliant. The third is the portability of the device. You can take it everywhere you want. It's light. And it's quick and fast, so yeah, I would recommend it to any colleague who is doing plastic surgery. You have the technology, it exists, it's simple to use, everybody can use it."

Ultrasound helps us see the anatomy and our instruments clearly in real-time so we can ensure we're placing fat above the muscle safely with millimeter accuracy. I commend the Florida Board of Medicine for recommending the use of ultrasound for BBL procedures; it's a positive step towards making the procedures safer."
